DEATH OF MR HENRY JACOBS

A link with the past is severed with the death of Mr Henry JACOBS, of Inverleith, Avenue-road, Sandown, which occurred on Thursday at the advanced age of 91. Mr JACOBS was born at the Parsonage Farm, Newchurch, on April 22, 1825, and was the son of Mr Isaac JACOBS. The only survivor of a large family, he had outlived most of his contemporaries. Among his earliest recollections was that of hearing, as a schoolboy, of the death of William IV, and the accession of Queen Victoria. He could also remember seeing the Abbe de Grenthe, the French refugee, who settled at Newport. At the time of the Chartist riots in London in 1848, when 100,000 citizens volunteered as special constables, Mr JACOBS was one of those enrolled, and his baton is still among the family treasures. For forty years he was in business in Ryde as a grocer and coal merchant. He was one of the old Ryde Commissioners, and when the town was made a borough in 1868 he was a member of the first Town Council. He also served as churchwarden of the Parish-church. Connected with many of the old island families, he had many reminiscences of the ancient parish of Newchurch, which then included both Ryde and Ventnor, and was a place of much greater importance than now. He could remember the time when much of the present parish of Ashey was an open common, and there were six gates to be opened when driving between Ryde and Newchurch. He was a Freemason and passed the chair of the East Medina Lodge in 1867.
