

ISLE OF WIGHT TIMES Thursday 30th Nov 1882

MR. FOWLES LAST PICTURE

“The picture recently presented to Shanklin by Mr. Vivian A. WEBBER has been hung in the Literary Institute and presents quite an attractive appearance, though its subject will furnish a memento of one of the saddest events on record. The picture does credit to Mr Arthur FOWLES, who painted it, and is an additional evidence of superior talent. Though I most sincerely hope that Mr. FOWLES may never again be able to paint a picture of any great calamity which shall be identified with Shanklin as the loss of the Eurydice is, yet I hope to see the walls of Shanklin’s Principal hall graced with further productions from his easle.” ----“Isle of Wight Express,” Nov 25.

---

Researched by
Ann Barrett