ISLE OF WIGHT OBSERVER Saturday 25th March 1876

DEATH OF MR. WILLIAM GRAY

We regret to record the death of Mr. William GRAY. of St. Dunstan's, Ryde, a water-colour artist of acknowledged talent. Most of our readers must have been familiar with his works, which were freely exhibited here, and were distinguished by a mellow richness of colouring which complete evinced his master over a very difficult medium. Mr. GRAY's celebrity was not merely local, he had frequently exhibited in London, and his works were always favourably criticised. Mr. GRAY, however, was most at home in the Isle of Wight scenery, and many a lovely Island scene had been portrayed by him in his charming style. A good colourist, like Mr. GRAY, was also at home with the rich blue skies and waters of sunny Italy, and not long since a view of Naples was exhibited in one of our tradesman's windows, and was much admired. Mr. GRAY had been a great invalid for some time, and he was in his 57th year.
