SUDDEN DEATH FROM HEART DISEASE

We have to record the sudden death of Mrs. A. BARTLETT, the wife of the landlord of the Eagle Tavern, Green-street. Mrs. BARTLETT, it seems, retired to rest as usual on Saturday night, but shortly afterwards roused her husband and complained of being unwell. Medical aid was soon forthcoming, but the poor woman died between 12 and 1 o'clock Sunday morning. It seems deceased had been suffering from heart disease, and a few months ago, when crossing from Portsmouth to Ryde, was taken ill, and her condition became serious that her recovery was hardly expected. She rallied, however, and has since seemed in very good spirits, till the seizure on Saturday night.

No inquest will be held, as the medical attendant can certify as to the cause of death.
