

1871 CENSUS: RG10/3361. folio 70. page 1.
Address: The Vicarage, Ancaster, Lincolnshire.

John P. MAUD. Head. Mar. 47. Vicar of Ancaster. Swainswick, Somerset.

Fanny E. D. MAUD. Wife. Mar. 39. Pelton, Durham.
John P. MAUD. Son. 10. Scholar. Tounm..... Cheshire.
Beatrice M. MAUD. Dau. 7. Scholar. Ancaster, Lincolnshire.
William MAUD. Son. 5. Scholar. Ancaster, Lincolnshire.
Arthur R. MAUD. Son. 4. Ancaster, Lincolnshire.
Bertrand MAUD. Son. 2. Ancaster, Lincolnshire.
Horace C. MAUD. Son. 1. Ancaster, Lincolnshire.
Mary MARTENDALE. Aunt. Unm. 79. Chester, Durham.
Sarah R. ALLEN. Serv. Unm. 30. Nurse. Easton, Northampton.
Frances WOOD. Serv. Unm. 25. Cook. Easton, Northampton.
Emsey BLACKBOURNE. Serv. Unm. 20. Housemaid. Wilsford, Lincolnshire.
Charlotte E. WILSON. Serv. Unm. 16. Nursemaid. Dunsby, Lincolnshire.

1898 KELLY's DIRECTORY of Hampshire & Isle of Wight - page 407
MAUD Rev., J.P. Sheldon House, Belvedere-street, Ryde, IW.

ISLE OF WIGHT COUNTY PRESS Saturday 22nd April 1899

DEATH OF THE REV. J. P. MAUD

We regret to announce the death of the Rev. John Primatt MAUD, which took place at Sheldon House, Belvedere-street, on Tuesday. He was born at Swainswick Rectory, Somersetshire, in 1823, and was educated at Westminster School, where he gained a studentship to Christ Church, Oxford, in 1842. He entered upon his University career in the approved manner of "Queen's scholars" of that period. The Great Western Railway did not extend beyond Didcot, and the journey to Oxford was completed in a post-chaise with four horses and postilions. At the last stage into Oxford the carriage was met by some 30 Old Westminsters on horseback, who escorted the young student to the "Tom Gate", where he was introduced to his college. The following three days were devoted to festivities of various kinds, breakfast parties, wine parties, and supper parties. After a year at Oxford he went out to India and joined the 5th Madras Native Infantry, with which regiment he served during the second Burmese war, under General GODWIN'S command, being present at the storming and capture of Pegu, 21st of November, 1852. He returned with the regiment to India and took part in the Mutiny, having command of a detachment of Sikhs, 1857-58. In 1859 he was invalided home, suffering from the effects of a sunstroke. He then resigned his commission, retiring with the rank of major, and went to Trinity Hall, Cambridge, the University of Oxford having granted him a "licaet migrare" He stroked his college eight, and in due course took his degree and entered the Church. He was vicar of Ancaster, Lincolnshire, for 31 years. He resigned his living in 1894. He was an excellent shot and a keen salmon fisherman, and he played golf to within a few months of his death, which took place in his 77th year.

He leaves a widow and ten children. Deceased took up his residence in Ryde soon after resigning his living. He had been ailing for some months and on Sunday was prayed for at Holy Trinity Church.

The funeral took place on Thursday. The body was in a polished oak coffin with a long brass cross on the lid. The first part of the service was sung at Holy Trinity Church, when the Revs. W. M. CAMERON and J. SHEARNE officiated. The hymns "Rock of Ages" and "Let saints on earth in concert sing” were rendered by the choir, the latter as a recessional, as the body was being conveyed out of the church. The widow and children were the chief mourners. There were also present in the church Messrs. B. BARROW and E. RICH and the Rev. R. NUTT. There were a number of wreaths and crosses from relatives and friends. Messrs. PURNELL were the undertakers. An excellent portrait of the deceased gentleman, with a sketch of his career, was contained in Thursday’s Daily Graphic. One of his sons is an artist on the Graphic.

Researched & typed by Ann Barrett
David Earle