OBITUARY

We regret to record the death on Sunday last, of Mr Samuel SOTHCOTT, after a long and very painful illness. Mr SOTHCOTT began life as a "jolly young waterman," but when boats became less in demand, he entered the service of the Pier Company. A year or so ago, he had the misfortune to fall from the Pier Head on to the sponsons of one of the steamers, and thereby received some internal injury which has been gradually sapping his constitution and making life a misery to him. The deceased was a good specimen of the old type of Isle of Wight boatmen, and had the classic profile and dark eyes and hair which have made scientist speculate as to whether the Roman occupation had not a greater influence than is generally supposed upon the inhabitants of the Isle of Wight.
