

Isle of Wight Observer 8th January 1870

DEATH OF MR. CARL AHLFELDT.---Our obituary this day records the death of Mr. Carl AHLFELDT, a gentleman who has resided in this town for nearly 30 years. Mr. C. AHLFELDT was a native of Hanover, and at an early period of his career was connected with the newspaper press of Germany. Through the ownership then exercised over the press all over the continent Mr. AHLFELDT left for this country, and ever since has been a porofessor of languages in this Island; and to the efficiently of his teaching very many living witnesses can bear witness. Mr. AHLFELDT married the daughter of the late Mr. SHALY of Newport, by whom he leaves a large family; and we but state what all who knew the deceased will endorse, that he was an agreeable, entertaining and liberal-minded man, deservedly respected by all who knew him.

---

NB: We note a discrepancy in the surname of his wife's father.

Researched by
Ann Barrett