ALL HOPE ABANDONED.---A Central News message states that practically all hope is abandoned in British Columbia for safety of missing British sloop Condor.

The Admiralty suggested in a statement issued last night that an accident might have happened to the Condor's machinery and delayed her arrival at Honolulu. Nothing has been heard of her since her departure from Esquimault on December 2nd,

The Navy department at Washington, according to a Central News telegram, has at the request of the British Admiralty ordered the cutter McCulloch now at San Francisco to join in the search for the missing vessel.

THE MISSING CONDOR.---No further news had been received yesterday of H.M.S. Condor, which left Esquimault on December 2nd, and it is now suggested that the missing vessel and a collier, also long overdue, have been lost in a collision.

The cruiser Phaeton, which sailed from Esquimault to follow the probable track of H.M.S. Condor, has arrived at San Francisco, bringing no news of the missing vessel. The search is being continued.
