

ISLE OF WIGHT OBSERVER Saturday 21st March 1891

DEATH OF MRS GARNETT.- We regret to record the death on Wednesday of Mrs GARNETT, the wife of our esteemed fellow townsman, Mr George GARNETT. It will be remembered that rather more than a year ago Mrs GARNETT had the misfortune to fall when in the garden, and to break one of the bones of her hip. The injured bone did not unite, and she suffered excruciating pain which was only alleviated by the construction of a specially contrived bed, or rather a hammock, upon which the poor lady spent many months of suffering, a fatal termination to the injuries being only a question of time. A person with a less strong constitution would not have survived so long. We can only say that a great deal of sympathy is felt with Mr GARNETT in his deep affliction, for his great attachment and devotion to his wife were well-known.

Researched & typed by
Ann Barrett
Kate MacDonell