DEATH OF MR. ELLIS PALMER.---With sincere regret we have to announce the death of this esteemed tradesman, which occurred quite unexpectedly at an early hour yesterday (Friday) morning. He had been in business as usual, and on Thursday afternoon went to Southsea with his wife. On returning by the last boat he was taken ill, and after being removed to his home he was seen by Dr. MACKENZIE, whose skill unfortunately proved unavailing, death being due to hemorrhage of the brain.

Mr. PALMER, who came to the town some 11 years ago since to take over the ironmonger's business in Union-street, formerly conducted by Mr. A. E. JUPE, always evinced considerable interest in all matters affecting the welfare of the borough. He was a staunch Churchman, and did useful service as a sidesman at the Parish Church. He was also a well-known member of the Masonic Order. In addition to the widow, deceased leaves a son and daughter by his first wife, for all whom the deepest sympathy is felt.
