DEATH OF AN OLD TOWNSMAN

Many of our readers will learn with regret the demise of Thomas PENTECOST, who had reached the ripe old age of 86 years. For many years Mr. PENTECOST was the curator of the Literary Institute, and only retired from the position when the requirements of the Town Council caused the building to be utilised for town purposes, and the Institute was broken up. Since then the old curator has subsisted on a pension from the Army and though not actually engaged in the fighting at Waterloo, was in the neighbourhood when the famous battle ended in the retreat and discomfiture of the French Army.
