

DEATH OF LADY LANGFORD

Our obituary records the death of Lady LANGFORD, wife of Hercules Edward Rowley Baron LANGFORD, and sixth daughter of Lady Harriette and Sir Richard SUTTON, 4th Baronet. The deceased lady had been ill for some time, and it being thought that change of air and being near her relatives in the Isle of Wight might benefit her, Lord LANGFORD took Quarrthorpe, near Ryde, for the winter, and brought her here a short time since, from his country house at Meath, in Ireland. The change did not have the expected good effect, for her ladyship gradually sank, and passed away on Monday last. She will be locally remembered as the charming Miss Georgina SUTTON, who, before her marriage in 1889, used to take a prominent part in Solent yachting and social events.

The funeral took place at Ryde Cemetery, on Thursday afternoon, the deceased lady being interred in the family vault, near her mother, the late Lady SUTTON. The service at the grave was taken by the Rev. A KINGSTON (Vicar of St. John's) and the Rev. A. SUTTON, a relative. The inscription on the coffin was:
