

ISLE OF WIGHT OBSERVER Saturday 28th December 1878

SUDDEN DEATH OF AN OLD TOWNSMAN. – We deeply regret to record the death, on Monday morning, of Mr. HENRY, who has for many years carried on the business of a jeweller in Union-street. Mr. HENRY appeared to be in his usual health on Sunday, with the exception that a slight cough, which he had always been subject to, was more than usually troublesome. He came down as usual to breakfast on Monday morning, but before he had touched it he fell down in what was at first taken for a fit, but which proved to be death itself. Mr. HENRY was a man who was universally liked and respected, and his sudden death, so close to the festive season, will be generally deplored.

Researched & typed by
Ann Barrett
Margaret Truckel